

Calling All Educators and Professionals!

The Cove School Invites You to Our Community Professional Development Day:

UNLOCKING LITERACY: FROM BRAINS TO BREAKTHROUGHS IN READING

Join us for this community engagement seminar where Dr. Joanna Christodoulou will discuss reading development, difficulties, and intervention, covering the brain basis of reading, differences in struggling readers, and brain plasticity.

She'll review definitions and assessments of reading disabilities, and evaluate intervention options, addressing word-level and comprehension challenges.

More information about Dr. Joanna Christodoulou can be found by visiting bit.ly/drjoanna.

April 19th, 2024 at The Cove School

350 Lee Road, Northbrook

9am - 3pm

*CEUs Are Available for This Event

The Cove School is pleased to offer this Community Professional Development Day at no cost to professionals and educators in the community.

Attendance is FREE!

Due to limited space, registration is required.

To register, visit bit.ly/covepdday or
CLICK HERE by Tuesay, April 9th .

At Cove, our educational philosophy is rooted in the strongest, current research for those with disabilities and is constantly influenced by the thought leaders who are driven to make meaningful changes in the lives of those we serve.

The Cove School is proud to host this annual professional development opportunity for leaders in the field of learning disabilities and related disorders.

For questions, please contact
Regina Aniolowski at raniolowski@coveschool.org